
C O N T E N T SGuy Standing:

Restructuring for Distributive Justice in Eastern Europe

Danny Pieters:

Introduction into the Social Security Law of the Member States of the European Community

The Shortened Version of the Parliamentary Debate of the Abortion Law

Maria, Vincze:

Resident Nursery in a Mother Role?

Éva, Kálló:

Nursery Home Children's Meeting with their Past

Mária, Majoros:

Helping Nursery Home Children Get into a Family

Katalin, Hevesi-Mária, Majoros-Mészáros Lászlóné-Anna, Tardos:

Nursery Home and Child Care

Katalin, Lévai:

"We should Make a School which Suit Them"

Valéria, Kovács:

"None of Us have Fitted in the School System"

English Summaries

In this issue we have introduced a section dealing with child-care in Hungary. There have been longlasting debates about the protection of embryonic life which provoked different reactions from the representatives of the parties. We have followed the often contradicting ideas and have selected the most marked opinions with the aim to inform our readers about the process of social legislation. The Bill has also been published with the two versions about the protection of embryonic life.

Our articles published in the section under the title of "Civil Society" give information about those kind of alternative initiatives in the field of education, which make effort to integrate drop-out children in a new type of school.